

The Recruitment Reach

Volume 7, Issue 2
Quarterly: July–Sept, 2017

Melinda has been employed with Northern Health since March, 2016. She is currently the Chief Physiotherapist in Fort St. John, BC.

Here is what Melinda had to say about working and living in Northern British Columbia.

“Coming from a big city I’ve always known the fast pace lifestyle. It’s nice to be able to slow down and enjoy the sunsets and sunrises, especially when I’m not stuck in bumper to bumper traffic. Some of my favourite moments are when I feel completely surrounded by nature. I’m just blown away by the pure wonderment of being under the northern lights during a late night cross country ski.”

I was surprised by the amazing climbing community and how well developed and maintained the climbing crags are. I love being able to spend hours in the summer hanging out at the crag and basking in the sunshine. There’s just so much climbing, hiking and exploring to do!”

Melinda was inspired to pursue a career in Physiotherapy because she loves being able to have a positive impact on someone’s life and the community.

When asked how Northern Health fits into her career goals, here’s her answer.

“I enjoy working for an organization that values and also develops their employees. Northern Health provides many opportunities to grow and develop their employees. I originally started with a temporary position to cover a maternity leave. After fulfilling that role I immediately transitioned into a Chief Physiotherapist role, managing an entire rehabilitation department.”

Being part of the Northern Health team has been unbelievable. I always feel extremely supported. Everyone has been very welcoming, like we are all part of the same family.”

Northern Health 's Values

Our values guide decisions and actions. They are what we bring to work with us each and every day. If these values resonate with you and this is an organization that you would be proud to work for, then please check out our external job postings.

Have you ever worked for an organization that believes in walking a mile in someone else's shoes?

Through Empathy we seek to understand each other's needs and feelings, giving compliments, encouragement and support when needed.

Is it your desire to work for an organization that treats you the way you want to be treated as a unique individual?

We believe in treating each other with Respect. We are courteous, polite and kind to one another and are curious to discover our differences and how we can continue to build successful relationships.

How exciting would it be to come to work and be a part of a team who cares about the work they do and yes, cares about you as well?

Though Collaboration, we work together to build partnerships that foster honesty and trust. We are, and encourage others to be open with their ideas and resolve conflicts where we all learn and grow.

What would it feel like to be part of an organization that encourages you to think outside the box?

We ask our employees to demonstrate creativity and Innovation when there are opportunities to improve and streamline work processes.
