

Living and Working in the North

Sandi came to work in Quesnel as a Sonographer in 2011.

Sandi loves to be outside and enjoys the fast access to natural spaces and the openness of the landscape. “There are endless opportunities for hiking and biking at all levels of ability. I also love the change of seasons. I love that the winter here allows for new opportunities to play outdoors, in the snow, with bright blue skies.”

Sandi loves the flexibility working in a smaller centre. “In larger centres a technologist has to decide whether they will pursue echocardiography or general sonography, here I get to do both. Northern Health allows me to pursue all of the specialties of ultrasound that I am accredited for. ”

“The team of sonographers and other health care providers I work with are very supportive of each other and work together to provide excellent care to the people of our community. I routinely get the opportunity to train new students and assist patients in getting excellent care.”

Robyn came to work in Kitimat General Hospital as a new grad Physiotherapist

Robyn loves skiing, cross country skiing, fishing, rock climbing and mountain biking. “It’s like living in your playground, you can get to the mountains or the ocean every day, not just on weekends after a long drive.”

Robyn was looking forward to getting out of big city living to the smaller communities in the mountains. “What attracted me to Northern Health was less people, more trees.”

“As a new grad my team has been very supportive and helpful as I make the transition from school to work. There’s been great mentorship and I feel I’ve got the support of everyone as I grow as a physiotherapist.”
